Excerpt: . vi the work and the workman The work in Red River--Begun in 1820--The Hudson i Bay Company--Their Posts--Diet of the men--Indians drifting Southward--Seeking Religious truth--Sending Missionaries to keep the hunters in the woods--James Evans chosen--Hit work at St. Clair Mission--His trip to New York. In i820 missionary work was begun in the Red River settlement by the Church of England society. To the Rev. John West, the founder of that mission, the chief said in an address on the occasion of the commencement of the work: There are a great many trees to be cut down and roots to remove before the path will be made clear to walk in. The work, however, prospered at the Red River, not many miles from the place where it enters into Lake Winnipeg. Here has long flourished a most interesting and successful mission. Here for many years the venerable Archdeacon Cowley lived, and was gladdened by the sight of a prosperous community of converted and civilised Indians around him. To other regions of the vast country, to the north and west, missions have since extended, until now nearly all of the people have heard the glad tidings of salvation. For over two centuries the great Hudson s Bay Company have been trading with the Indians, The Hudson s Bay Company Their goods brought out from England are bartered for furs. York Factory on the Hudson s Bay, and Norway House, about twenty miles north of the...
