In the tidy martial figure, clad in the gray uniform of a West Point Cadet, seen standing in front of the Post Commandant at his headquarters, and in the attitude of saluting that grave dignitary, but for the same jolly bright eye and frank, cheerful countenance, one would hardly have recognized the young metropolitan aspirant for military honors of two years previous. Cadet Gordon, your conduct as reported by your superior officer is positively most reprehensible, and deserving of conspicuous rebuke. But for special credits due you for previous gallant conduct under circumstances to which I need not now refer, but of which you shall receive the full benefit, the consequences of such thoughtless conduct might be to you, most disastrous. As the case stands, let there be in the future no such interviews as this. Such breaches of discipline cannot be frequently tolerated. Remember, sir, that to the character of a soldier capable of fulfilling the duties his country will expect of him, dignity of bearing and subjection to discipline are as equally essential as is scientific attainment. You can now return to your quarters. A lucky fellow and a very narrow escape, my dear Bob. How would a faithful report of this interview be appreciated by your indulgent governor, or that fair being at his side who has dropped her angel wings and consorted with rough man, that she might mould a character, as thoughtless and heedless as yours See my...
